Facilitators: Dr Graham Walker, Australian National University, and Revathy Dasan, Science Centre Singapore

Summary:

Science Shows are a powerful platform to communicate science to large groups through live demonstrations, characters, humour, emotional engagement and audience interaction. Be part of this workshop to discover some (we hope!) new and unusual demonstrations and learn how to blend these key ingredients and cook up an edu-taining science performance.

Participant Requirements:

Workshop is suitable for science communicators / educators / science show or programme curators / or staff aiming to develop and apply new skills in these areas.

People new to these areas with these responsibilities in their centres are particularly encouraged to participate.
